THE HUMMER WASHER.

A New Washing Machine Introduced by Mr. R. W. Timmins.

Mr. R. W. Timmins has purchased the Assinibois Agency for the Hummer Wash Boiler, a superior machine which has recently been patented. The Hummer is the latest invention for minimizing the labor of washing. In appearance it resembles an ordinary wash boiler. The interior is an ingenious arrangement whereby a constant circulation of water is kept up.

A trial test of the machine was made on Friday last and was viewed by a representative of the Times. A collection of soiled clothes had been made, and this included some firemen's and engineers' clothing. These were placed in the machine and after about a short boiling they had undergone a very decided change. The clothes were thoroughly cleaned and the white clothes, which consisted largely of table linen, were washed to a whiter color than is usually the case with the ordinary method. One important feature is that the new invention obviates the necessity of rubbing the clothes. Hence a large saving. It is apparent that the Hummer is a great saver with respect to labor and fuel. Several have already been placed in town and a number have expressed themselves as delighted with them.

The Wawanesa Enterprise says:—"The Hummer Wash Boiler is rapidly making its way in the favor of the housekeepers, who have tested it, and deservedly so. By it the proverbial discomforts of washing day are fairly overcome. On Monday we saw it tested very severely, and come out ahead. A large washing that would have taken a whole day of ten hours to do was done in a little more than two hours. This boiler is simplicity itself, and is constructed on true scientific principles. We can cordially recommend it to the ladies and to the gentlemen too, who fight shy of their homes on washing day, and value the ease and comfort of their better halves."

THE CREAMERY MOVEMENT.

"How not to do it might well designate the making and marketing of home-made butter. Waste characterizes all but the most carefully arranged private dairies—waste of milk, time and labor. Waste attends the sale or rather barter of the article produced. Even when home-made butter is gilded, as it often is, the local merchant who buys in small lots ship it in company with badly made varieties which the lapse of time renders offensive to two or three of the human senses, and the good article is gilded down to the level of its companionship.

Of course farmers and their wives know this as well as the merchants do. Therefore people who have once enjoyed the advantage of a creamery would seldom be disposed to go back to the one-house system with its attendant waste and loss. Yet we have seen a promising creamery handicapped by the scant patronage gradually doleful to it by the farmers who should have been largely benefited by its operations. In a district containing the requisite number of milk cows to supply a creamery of a given size, established and in running order—if that concern is not run to its full capacity something is wrong. Either the directors want the cream at a price unjust to the farmer, or the latter wants the creamery man to employ his capital and labor entirely for the farmer's benefit and to his own loss.

When either or both of two parties dependent upon each other attempt thus to play sharp, both ultimately come to grief. Canning outwards itself—good doctors itself; while a liberal give-and-take policy would bring advantages all round.

The contrast for our creamery building has been let. The stock is largely all subscribed and the purchase of the requisite machinery can shortly be made. The Dominion Dairy Co. missioner has signified his willingness to take charge of the creamery during the coming season. The new industry promises well. Let it be conducted on sound business principles. Let the farmers be given the best possible terms from the start to emphasize the difference between the old and the new system; and let the farmers give the creamery a liberal patronage even if prices at the outset are rather low while the infant industry is getting on its feet.

A brace of sharpers in Chicago have perpetrated one of the most hard-headed ticket swindles known in the history of railroads. By simply borrowing the name of a little wood road eight miles long in Louisiana, they printed tickets by wholesale purporting to be the road's issue and reaching any point in the States to which a passenger wished to go. The tickets were honored promptly, and the swindle was only discovered when the various lines drew on the eight-mile road for the proportion of the haul.

It is stated that the Indian Government has decided to depose the Khan of Khelat on account of his irrepressible bloodthirstiness. While the torture to which he has subjected his wives and subjects is scarcely bad, but under investigation, he has murdered sixty-five of his subjects, thus adding the number of murders committed at his instance since he began to reign in 1859 to 3,000. He has killed five of his wives. One of them he burned alive. The Indian Government appoints the Khan's son to his nominal rulership to control the native chiefs, and they annex Beluchistan.

A recent telegram from Chicago reads:—"President Mrs. Potter Palmer surprised the board of lady managers this morning by rising a soon as the meeting was called to order and saying that she would have to resign if the ladies would not quit quarrelling and behave in a more dignified manner. The meeting was an absolutely interesting one and many of the members were in tears before it was over.

Some of the ladies even cried aloud, and speeches in support of the president were made in broken voices, accompanied by expressions of heartfelt sympathy for Mrs. Palmer, when she declared that she was utterly discouraged with the action of certain members of the board. The women vied each other to be heard, and finally a resolution supporting the president and thanking her for the noble work she had done was unanimously passed. A resolution empowering the president to appoint a committee to formulate the plans for a great organization of ladies of which the present board of lady managers was to be the foundation, was passed. In support of this action the ladies stated that when the World's Fair work was done they desired to band themselves together to further the interests of their sex.

A young woman faces a succession of hard trials when she turns to business career, writes Edward W. Bok. It is easier for her to think that she can do what she sees others doing than it is for her to do it. It is not so easy to be compelled to rise at a certain hour day after day whether one feels like it or not; to eat a hasty breakfast, or let messes rather to halt it; to go out into the biting frosts of the winter and the torrid heats of the summer; to leave the comforts of home behind and those dearest and nearest to us; to be compelled to wait when the eyes will scarcely keep open from the ache in the head; to eat either a cold lunch spread on the bare or mingle with the elements in a cheap restaurant; to see the washboard running behind, with no time to sew or replenish it; to go through the strain of a long day's work only to return home at evening often too tired to eat; to feel too exhausted to do anything in the evening but to remain at home and seek recovery to gain strength for the morning; to go through the same routine of mental and physical anguish. Will any one call this a life of independence?

The typical hardware man, says The Iron Monger, is quite a different personage from his neighbor in business—the grocer, the tailor and the jeweller—all because of this reflex action of the man and his occupation. The grocer appeals to the stomach of his customer, the tailor and the jeweller to his vanity, and the dry goods merchant to the artistic tastes of his customer's wife. But there is something dreadfully earnest about the hardware man's pursuit. His business is not on the gay and frothy side of life. His wares represent civilization. He trades in implements whereby nature is subdued. Power, conquest, multiplication of strength, progress in enlightenment, dexterity in action, constitute the stock in trade that passes over or around his counter at every sale. Metal implements that are tools of strength, forged in glowing heat, beaten into shape under tremendous pressure—these are the wares he handles. Consciously or unconsciously the typical hardware dealer imbibes the spirit of his goods. There is something rugged and sterling in his make up, a trace of the General Grant. The force of his personality is that of any yielding metal. It commands respect, repels invasion and overcomes obstacles. The grocer is suave and cheery, harmonizing himself with the appetite of his customers. The tailor is wrapped up in the contemplation of the fit of his garments. The mind of the dry goods merchant runs to founding fabrics and laces. The hardware man is made of sterner stuff. He represents the accumulated material force of the age.

The Moose Jaw Spectator quotes from police commissioner Horsfield's report as follows: "While I have not the actual figures of liquor imported since 1st Jan. and under the present system it was impossible to find out the actual quantities imported, I have no hesitation in saying that the quantity of liquor used under the license system very greatly exceeds that under the permit system and that while the heavy drinkers under the old system, except those who have taken the gold cure with advantage, still drink heavily, a considerable number of settlers who formerly seldom or never obtained liquor are now using large quantities, and as I stated before, half-breeds can get it wherever they have money, and consequently, in many cases, Indians, in spite of the closest watchfulness on our part. Further on, in speaking of the discipline of the force, the same officer admits there has been an increase of drunkenness in that body.

"The recent change in the customs department at Ottawa is likely to produce some good effect in increasing the efficiency of the department," says the Commercial. Comptroller Walla has made some trips about the country visiting principal importing points, and hearing complaints from importers, with a view of remedying existing grievances. One frequent complaint which has been presented to him, is the valuation of goods at different ports, for customs purposes. This has been a matter of considerable annoyance to large importers at some points, where it is claimed the valuation is higher than at other ports of entry.

While our present tariff policy remains in force, the comptroller of customs is not likely to be bogged with complaints of some kind or hand for there will be many difficulties and perplexities continually growing out of the tariff situation. One thing, however, which the comptroller can enforce among customs officials generally is civility towards the public. Customs officers are not all noted for civility or polite attention to their duties when dealing with the public. Some of these officials are inclined to assume a lordly, and even insulting air, towards those who have business to transact with them. They assume the posture of masters, rather than servants of the public, and make themselves generally disagreeable. This of course should not be permitted in public servants in any capacity, and the comptroller has given orders that must be discounted. Hereafter, he says, all complaints against customs officers of insolent or insulting toward the public will be rigidly investigated. There are many officials who will not need a warning in this nature but there are those who require some such restraint. At any rate the public will appreciate the effort.

TWO

Matters we wish to speak about this week—both of vital importance—

The first is in reference to your back yards, sinks and out-houses. Of course you are making a general clean-up at this time of the year. You cannot afford to dispense with DISINFECTANTS. Use Sulphate of Iron, Chloride of Lime, Phenyl or Carbolic Acid, and use it liberally for it is cheap.

The second matter is of more interest to the Farmers. The Government has discontinued supplying strychnine for destroying gophers, but the gophers won't discontinue destroying your crops on that account. They promise to be as plentiful and destructive as ever. Bole's Soluble Strychnine is the only Certain Remedy, because the strychnine is completely dissolved and no loss occurs in the process of treating the grain. Now is the time before the young gophers appear.

BOHARN SIPPING.

We have been patiently waiting for some of the Boharn correspondents to resume writing; but they appear to be waiting for one another. In the meantime we will give the public a little news.

Boharn has taken an old time boom. Buildings are springing up like mushrooms in a hot-bed.

No less than five cars of settlers' effects have arrived at Boharn this spring, the last three being the property of Maers, Arnold, Shipley and Maloch who came from Chatham, Ont. Every available section of land is eagerly sought after.

Mr. Pearce and son who arrived from Muskoka recently with a carload of settlers effects reports a quite a number from that point turning their eyes towards Boharn.

Mrs. R. K. Thompson was very agreeably surprised the other day in receiving a beautiful Dominion piano a present from her father, Mr. B. Hopkins, of Brownsville, Ont.

Mr. Charles Pratt, of Tilsonburg, and Mr. Smith, of Chatham, are amongst the latest arrivals.

Mr. Thomas Auger has the contract for re-seating the meeting-house.

Our scholars are making rapid progress under the teaching of Miss Green. Mr. T. Arnold says Mrs. T. will be here next Saturday, sure.

The weather is all that could be desired and farmers are seeding both early and late.

The leader of the Boharn choir has purchased a brand new tuning fork, and says with the new voices he has secured for his choir they will make "Rome howl."

Mr. John Hill is looking more like home in strength and we hope now that the winter weather has been he will soon be fully recovered.

Stealing a Ride.

WINNIPEG, May 8th. Magistrate Wolf presided at the police court yesterday. The most important case on the docket was that of a young man named Henry Woodman, who was accused of stealing a ride on a C. P. R. freight train. The prisoner claims to have been working at a place in Assiniboia shovelling coal for the company. He got a pass to Brandon and stole a ride to High Bluff. At that place he was discovered in a car by a brakeman, who told him to get out. He asked him if he could not ride further and received a negative answer. The prisoner then gave the brakeman twenty-five cents and the latter told him to go back into the car. On that particular point of evidence the prisoner and the brakeman differ, the latter denying he was offered or that he accepted any money. On the arrival of the freight train in the city the C. P. R. police arrested Woodman. The magistrate in assuming up stated that the prisoner had distinctly broken the rule of the company. It seemed almost impossible to believe that a brakeman would jeopardize his position for the sake of such a small amount. He, however, would impose a penalty of $5 or five days. He paid the fine. The C. P. R. are determined to stop tramps from stealing a ride on their trains and this is the first example that they have made.
